Fighting for the consumer

A Pleasanton woman is head of a committee which may be bringing a department of consumer affairs to Alameda County.

Fern Corley, who recently helped to lead "Anything But Coffee" Week locally, is putting the finishing touches on a $144,000 proposed budget to set up the new county department. People with consumer complaints — poor service, defective merchandise — could call the department for prompt resolution of their problems.

Corley is chairperson of the Consumer Affairs Commission committee which started working last summer on the proposal. The department in its proposed final form will be discussed Thursday at a Consumer Affairs Commission meeting before going to the board of supervisors for approval. The supervisors have deferred action until June so they can consider the proposal along with other Fiscal Year 1978 matters.

"The consumer movement is an important thing that's happening at all levels," Corley comments. "Many things are really best done at the local level and a county agency would have some clout."

At present, she notes, people with consumer complaints "get referred from one agency to another because no agency knows exactly what the next one does."

After studying consumer affairs departments in Santa Clara, Stanislaus, Orange, Los Angeles and Sacramento Counties, Corley's committee drew up their own set of ideas.

They are proposing consumer affairs be handled in a separate department with its own offices and staff including a director, four investigators and two clerk - stenographers.

A number of volunteer workers would help to handle complaints. The department would have no legal powers but could make telephone calls to thrash out problems and could advise consumers on what legal actions could be taken.

The department is starting small in relation to Alameda County's population, but would be expected to grow each year, Corley added. Advertising and word - of - mouth would continually increase the number of people who would make use of the free service.

One goal is to make the department "highly visible" with a single well - advertised telephone number and a knowledgeable person readily available to help the caller. "When you're frustrated, you want something done NOW," Corley points out.

Part of protest at Lab 11 days ago. This time it'll go inside

No 'go ahead'

Protest goes inside the Lab this weekend

Protesters are planning to enter the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory (LLL) Saturday as part of a Bay Area wide demonstration against nuclear facilities built near earthquake fault zones.

A two-day trip sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee encompassing eight local facilities will begin at the U.C. Berkeley Nuclear Reactor on Friday the 13th as an omen of "bad luck." The "bad luck" gesture they say is directed at local residents who could be caught in a disaster if the next major earthquake strikes before hundreds of pounds of plutonium is removed from local nuclear facilities.

Saturday morning the protesters will dramatize escaping radioactive gases from the General Electric Vallecitos plant near Livermore, by releasing helium balloons.

Following that event the group will drive in a caravan to Robert Livermore Park where a skit will be presented illustrating an airplane crash causing the spread of plutonium in event of a transport mishap.

Saturday afternoon, demonstrators will "tour" the LLL Vistors Center and then listen to Dave McFadden give a speech on "peaceful conversion" of the facility in the lab's parking lot.

A spokesman for the lab, Jeff Garberson said that he "hadn't heard anything" about the group using the Vistors Center. He said, "Even though the Vistors Center is open to the public, it is not a forum for political debate." Liz Walker of People Against Nuclear Power told The Times they had not been given "the go ahead" and that lab personnel might have to put us "across the gate where the last protest was held."

She indicated that there were "no plans" for occupation of the lab and that the objective of the protest was "primarily an educational tour."

Walker said, "If the money currently poured into nuclear research could be transferred into alternative sources, it would mean a much better life for us all."

The events building up to the nuclear protest have been linked to recent activities in Seabrook, N.H. where demonstrators occupied the site of a proposed nuclear facility in an effort to halt its construction.

Walker said there is "definitely a lot of inner connection." She said, "There are individuals who have been out here from the Clamshell Alliance to speak to our groups."

The Clamshell Alliance, a coalition working to stop nuclear power in New England, is patterned after a similar nonviolent movement in West Germany.

Virginia Bennett

Historian is top citizen in Dublin-SRV

DUBLIN — Virginia Bennett, head librarian of Dublin Public Library, was presented with the Dublin - San Ramon Citizen ofthe Year Award Friday night at Castlewood Country Club in Pleasanton.

The presentation was made prior to Maid of Dublin coronation ceremonies held at the same place that evening. The Dublin Chamber of Commerce sponsored both events.

The library staff made a unanimous decision to nominate Bennett for the award, according to Young Adult librarian, Elizabeth Talbot.

An anonymous Citizen of the Year committee made their selection from nominations submitted to them. They chose Bennett for two reasons.

One was for her efforts to constantly improve and expand library programs to fulfill community needs. The other was for her productive interest in local history.

"The whole library earned that award," Bennett said. "Without their support I wouldn't have made it. Nor would this library branch have made it without administration and headquarters backing it. It took a heck of a lot of people to make me look good enough to win that award. It is a symbol of the library."

Bennett belongs to most of the local historical societies. She is on the Dublin Historical Preservation Association's board of directors.

Hike, stick em up

ALAMO — An Alamo pizza parlor employe was robbed Monday by an unarmed bandit very proficient in the art of body blocking, sheriff's deputies said.

Mark James, 19, said the bandit's block was like any football player's.

James had driven from the Pizza Hut, where he worked, to make his usual nightly deposit at Bank of America shortly before 1 a.m. Monday, he said.

As he approached the deposit box, James saw the bandit running toward him from the bushes where he apparently had been waiting, deputies said.

He knocked James to the ground, grabbed the deposit bag and fled on foot with $182 cash and another $38 in checks. James said he lost sight of the suspect in the darkness near a gas station.

Cleanup winds up

Phase two of the "Spring Garden Cleanup" gets underway this week in Pleasanton. Residents throughout the city's core area, in Pleasanton Valley and all tracts east of Santa Rita Road, are included in this Saturday's scheduled special collection.

Bags and boxes of garden trimmings left at the curbside before 5 a.m. Saturday will be collected that day, free of charge.

The Spring Garden Cleanup is conducted the first and second Saturdays of each May throughout the city by Pleasanton Garbage Service.

Council bounces ambulance

PLEASANTON — City council voted last night 4-1 to deny Tri-Cities Ambulance's plea to keep its crew on Guyson Court in the Val Vista tract.

The council majority felt that the presence of the emergency vehicle 24-hours a day is a dangerous nuisance to residents of the court, which has a high population of children.

Council members did agree to give the ambulance service a grace period to find a suitable location within the city.

Toward that end, director of public safety Walt McCloud yesterday afternoon offered his services in reviewing city facilities for a possible ambulance location.

Tri-Cities director Robert Lee gave the impression he is not so much opposed to moving to Guyson Court as he is worried about the future threat of having to move his crew every 60 days as new neighbors complain to the city council.

Council member Joyce LeClaire provided the lone 'no' vote, claiming that ambulance service is in the same category as police and fire, and should not even be governed by a home occupational use permit.

Mayor Robert Philcox said he probably would have sided with the ambulance service if it had located on a major street like Ingelwood instead of a tucked away court in Val Vista.

This family is loaded for the long haul

SAN RAMON — Scott and Olivia Bartel love it when their father, Carl, hitches up the "Bugger" behind one of the family bicycles and tows them for 25 or 30 miles.

Scott is seven - and - a - half months old. He has been a veteran "Bugger" rider since he was three weeks old. Olivia is three - and - a - half years of age. Dad's been towing her since she celebrated her three - month - old birthday.

The "Bugger" is a 25 pound contraption resembling a pony cart that can be attached behind a bike and carry 100 pounds.

Scott tips the scales at 13 lbs.; Olivia, 25. He sits strapped in a car seat which, in turn, is tied securely to the "Bugger." Olivia wears a cycling helmet and perches behind Scott. Sometimes she rides beside him but has less room that way.

Susan, the mother, rides along on her own bicycle. She and Carl have belonged to the Valley Spokesman Touring Club for three years. They join other club members for rides at least one time during the weekend and go out by themselves at least twice during the week.

Armed robber sought in Dublin hold-up

Holdup on fair report talks

The County Fair Association is awaiting a call from Supervisors Valerie Raymond and Fred Copper Cooper in order to set up a joint meeting on the County Fair Operations Report, compiled over the past two months and presented to Supervisors last week.

Though the County Fair Association Board of Directors has a meeting scheduled tonight at 8, Secretary - Manager Lee Hall told The Times Monday no discussion or reference to the report is planned, either in open or closed session.

The report, compiled by the county's Roland Mayne following a request by Mrs. Raymond and Cooper, recommends that a new contract be offered to the County Fair Association.

The present contract runs through the end of the summer. The Fair Association operates the Fairgrounds in Pleasanton under a contract with Alameda County.

In a cover letter directed to Mrs. Raymond, Cooper and the other board members, County Administrator Loren W. Enoch said the report recommends offering a new contract "with two changes." Those changes include rewriting the section on insurance to reflect present conditions, and requiring the Fair to develop and implement an affirmative action program.

Enoch suggests that, "prior to executing a new contract, the Board of Supervisors resolve any difference it has with the present methods of appointment and length of service of directors of the Fair Association. These changes would be made in the by-laws of the association."

The present makeup of the board finds seven of the 21 directors from the Livermore - Pleasanton area, three from the Fremont - Newark - Union City area, two from Berkeley - Alameda, four from Oakland - Piedmont - Emeryville - Alameda, and five from San Leandro - Hayward - Castro Valley.

The report provides an in-depth analysis of Fair Association fiscal operations, maintenance and event operations, a comparison with other county fairs in Northern California, and a review of attendance of each present director.

Counties are authorized to have fairs and have the authority to set a tax not to exceed 4 cents for its support. The law further provides that the County Board of Supervisors may contract with a non-profit corporation or association to conduct the fair. Such an association may also maintain, operate and promote the use of fairgrounds and other acitivities. Major county fairs in Northern California, aside from Alameda County's in Pleasanton, are San Mateo, Santa Clara, Solano and Sonoma.

The "other activities" are referred to as interim events by the Alameda County Fair Association and, in fact, are the major source of revenues and attendance.

Alameda's contract stipulates, as regards insurance, that the Fair Association provide for the maintenance of the building with annual maintenance plan being submitted to the county. In actual practice, there is an annual inspection by the General Services Agency to assure proper maintenance. The county reserves the right to do any maintenance deemed proper and to bill the cost to the Fair Trust Fund.

The contract between the association and county provides for the county to procure and pay for liability insurance.

Mayne further states in the report that "all of the Bay Area racing fairs appear to be almost totally self - supporting. The exception to this is that the County of San Mateo pays a portion— about $5,000 per year— of the Fair Manager's salary, and up to $10,000 of the fair's general liability coverage. There are no county contributions by Solano or Sonoma County for their county fairs."

Under the section on management of the Fair, the report states, "The Fair Association, with the present contract entered into in 1963, has steadily improved its economic position." And later, in reference to the county employees strike that drastically undercut attendance and revenues in 1976, the report notes; "Remarkable, however, is that even with this operating loss, the fair ended this year with a balance of $750,553 available."

And further along in the same section, "In summary, the Fair Association, due to its conservative money management position, has been able to withstand the net decrease in operating profit from 1975 of $988,394 without hazarding the good cash position of the Fair Association.

The report does suggest some grave misgivings in the realm of "personnel matters." The report from Mayne's office says, "Employee representation has been a problem at the Fairgrounds."

A program of affirmative action is recommended, with the county affirmative action officer assisting.

"One of my main interests lies in history," Bennett said. "And I have tried in every way possible to tie to the library any historical information I've come across."

For her Bachelor of Arts thesis, Bennett said she did a "Pictorial Partial History of Dublin." She received her masters degree in librarianship.

She said she has gathered some historical facts about Pleasanton and Livermore.

"Now I would like to research San Ramon."

Bennett has been a member of the Dublin Public Library staff since it opened in 1966.

"When I heard about a job opening there it just seemed right," she said. "Something about Dublin appealed to me. It still does."

Her first position was Children's Librarian. When the head librarian moved away, Bennett was promoted to that job.

"I wore two hats since I still acted as children's librarian, too. To further complicate matters, especially in regard to business, the children's section was under the jurisdiction of Contra Costa County and the adult portion under Alameda County."

Nuclear protest

On Feb. 23, 1975, the West German movement stirred 26,000 people to march onto a proposed nuclear site in the small town of Whyl.

They occupied the site for months. This action was followed by a larger demonstration in Brokdorf, Germany where 35,000 rallied and helped bring about a court ruling placing a mortorium on building of nuclear power plants in Germany.

Starting in August, 1976, the Seabrook, N.H. demonstratons began and have developed into the recent occupation where Army reserve units were called upon to handle the situation.

TOMATOES IN THE FACE AREN'T SO BAD

If you wish to look young forever, don't object when your fans throw tomatoes during your act. Tomatoes make a good skin cleanser. Natural beauty experts tell us to rub a slice or wedge of fresh tomato on face and throat to rid the skin of excess pore oil. Tomatoes also bleach splotchy skins. They contain chlorine, potassium, iodine and vitamins C, B, and A, all good for the hide.

World famous Dr. Erno Laszlo, Transylvanian skin doctor, who cared for the skin of Garbo, Gloria Vanderbilt and the Duchess of Windsor, advised restoring the acid mantle to the skin. Tomatoes are known for their acidity.

A facial masque of oatmeal, eggs, lemon juice and strawberries was the concoction of a beauty specialist on television. I didn't get his name, but he had a beautiful, unlined face.

Freshly squeezed corn milk lotion is a favorite of Virginia Castleston, writer of You Can Be A Natural Beauty. She claims it nourishes and softens the skin. She also states that it prevents a blush from an over-heated kitchen. And she recommends mascerated lettuce (run through the blender) as a healing skin lotion. Mix it with melted mutton fat for a skin cream and absorb its iron, magnesium, sulfur, silicon, potassium and phospherus.

Puree of Avocado is used by a New York model for a skin food. Another model uses yogurt and honey for a facial masque. The yogurt contains protein and is acidy, and the honey is a skin tightener passed down from Cleopatra. Another skin tightener is Vitamin E Oil which in experiments helped to erase facial lines when applied twice a day for two weeks.

Mary Ann Crenshaw, in her book, The Natural Way To Super Beauty, advises that along with Vitamin E, vitamins A, D, C, and B improve skin health. She also states that one should avoid chocolate, sugar and refined flour, olives, greasy food, cola, coffee and tea, but especially alcoholic beverages, in order to have a good looking skin.

She wants us to avoid sunshine if possible, which gives us Vitamin D, but takes away Vitamin B. And alcohol destroys Vitamin B also, she says.

Slice cucumbers and place a slice on each eyelid to reduce swelling or the puffy look. Place cabbage in your juicer and use the liquid obtained to clean your face of make-up and creams. If you do not use make-up, cabbage juice will keep you fresh looking all day. They say the Vitamin C content strengthens the skin tissue. The sulfur, silicon, potassium and calcium also add to skin health.

Paste of carrots spread on clogged pores, helps to draw poisons out of the skin, and reduce inflammation on broken out faces. This is advocated by natural body-care consultant, Virginia Castleton, in her June 1975 article in Organic Gardening and Farming, Garden Cosmetics.

To prepare the masque: Steam carrots and puree. Put warm mixture on your face for 15 to 30 minutes. Rinse with cool water and pat dry.

Remember when mother used to tell you to eat your carrots, they'd make your hair curly? She could have been right, but luckily, they don't make your face curly.

Getting into a rut? And an unhealthy rut, at that? Then treat yourself to an entire day of workshops aimed at electrifying you from head to toe. The super healthy modes of living that will be taught at Anthropos' Sunday, May 15 faire are a way of life for the workshop leaders, who range in vocation from marriage counselors to chiropractors.

The event, open to the public for $7.50 (adults) and $5 (students and senior citizens), will be held at The Barn in Livermore from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Along with the 20 workshops being offered, music and food will bring rest to the weary, and activities for children under 12 (admitted free) are also planned.

Faire Coordinator Jill Raiguel, a licensed marriage, family and child counselor and a former staff member at the Holistic Health Institute in San Francisco, will open the day with "Road Maps to Superhealth," a guide to long range health maintenance.

Jill feels that body symptoms such as a headache "give us information to change our present course of action." With the help of the varied talents on hand at the faire, individuals will have the opportunity to learn both new and ancient ways to keep healthy — both mentally and physically.

A special workshop has been planned for the day's end, featuring Livermore resident Liz Moir and her intensive journal. "The journal process is a way of integrating your life, tying loose ends and exploring new fields," explains Liz, adding that her workshop will help individuals put the pieces together after a day filled with everything from tips on nutrition to learning how to deal with anger.

The integration process is essentially a written one, says Liz, with sections of the journal devoted to both the conscious and the unconscious. Divided into four major areas, the journal begins with a log (a rational recording of what has happened in your life); dialogues (the unconscious within you dealing with one specific aspect of your life); depth dimensions (dealing with dreams and images) and lifetime dimensions (random memories and points in your life when you had to choose to go one way or another).

The intensive journal is based largely on "At a Journal Workshop," by Ira Progoff, a follower of Jung. Many learn how to keep such diaries in college classes, and according to Liz, "People are in complete control of what they put in it. When you get to a point when you can't control your emotions you stop writing."

Liz, who has a masters degree in English from Boston University, is a fulltime counseling student at San Jose State University. Currently on her second journal, she is an enthusiastic supporter of writing everything down, because "it puts your life into focus. You can really let off steam, then you get beyond that," she points out. "You can look for the meaning in your life, where your life has been, what's held it together, where you've been actively involved with life . . . I've mellowed out."

Evening with Anthropos

The public is invited to the 8 p.m. program at 1814 Catalina Court, Livermore for a $2 fee.

Brint's class will deal with iridology, which correlates each part of the body and mind with a charted area of the iris of the eye. By observing various changes in iris fibers, the general condition of any part of the system may be discerned, according to this theory.

Participants will be able to examine one another's eyes, and are asked to bring a magnifying glass of from three to five power, and a pen light.

Sendoff

Taking off for parts unknown — that's one of the plans retiring teachers Barbara Good (left) and Olive Sorensen are making. Their colleagues on the Almond Avenue School staff in Livermore will be giving them a big sendoff — anyone may attend — at the Blue Dolphin Restaurant at the marina in San Leandro. Promised to be "in the tradition of a Cecil B. DeMille epic," the party is Saturday, June 18, beginning at 6:30 p.m. with a social hour. Reservations at $10 may be made through Ysleta McCarty at Almond School. (Times photo)

Murray candidate faces first 'public interview'

Seattle leader checks schools

DUBLIN — Floyd Davis, assistant superintendent for curriculum planning and development in Seattle, fielded questions at the first of four "public interviews" last night at Frederiksen School.

Today, Byron Antcliff, superintendent of the Huron School District in Michigan, will tour the Murray district with Local Advisory Committee members.

The public meeting at Frederiksen will begin at 7:15 p.m.

Davis, 47, received his doctorate in education at U.C. Berkeley, and was an intermediate school principal in Santa Clara. After 11 years in that K-12 district, he moved to Seattle where he became director of the basic skills section.

Since arriving in Seattle, the K-12 enrollment, because of economic and social factors, has declined 40 per cent to 60,000 students.

There are still 115 schools since, because of emotionalism, Davis says, none have been able to close.

Davis lists his educational system priority as, thorough instruction in basics, long range planning, and initiation of an in-service training program.

Expanding on the second priority, Davis said, "It appears that you have some facilities needs and some renovating here and there."

Questioned about declining enrollment, Davis noted he was once principal of a school to be closed in Santa Clara. "My thought would be to get right into it (prospect of closing) and get lots of community input."

He said that a sixth - eighth grade school should really be an extension of the elementary school, rather than a prep school for high school.

On binding arbitration, Davis commented, "I would say to you, stay out of binding arbitration as long as you can — the one thing you want to do is keep the issue at the local level.

Geldertown stand expected by schools

LIVERMORE — The Livermore Unified School District board will hammer out details of their position against "Geldertown" when they meet at 7:30 tonight in the Education Center, 685 Las Positas Blvd.

So far, the board has decided only to oppose the proposed development north of Interstate 580 on the grounds that it would cause a tax burden on the people who already live in Livermore unless the developer provided new schools there to absorb the expected thousands of new pupils.

The board has been urged to take a stronger stand against the new town rather than simply asking for assurances of sufficient facilities there.

A letter written by the school district staff on behalf of the board will be discussed tonight before being forwarded to the county board of supervisors as a reflection of the school board's position. The planning commission already approved a general plan amendment which would permit the new development. Local public agencies have been unanimously against it on social, environmental and financial grounds.

The supervisors are scheduled to hold a public hearing in Livermore on the proposal before making their decision on the general plan amendment.

Day care meeting for sitters

LIVERMORE — Licensed babysitters are invited to a Family Day Care Home meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 17, at the Valley Child Care agency's office, 1520 Catalina Court (455 - 5111.)

Information will be available on the new by - laws and insurance for the group. It will be a potluck dessert meeting; participants are asked to bring a favorite dessert and recipe.

Report due on special ed.

Amador Valley Joint High School District trustees will receive an in-depth report on the new federal special education law, as well as statements from teacher unit and classified employee groups at their meeting this evening.

Board members will convene in the Foothill High School library at 8 o'clock.

The presentation on Public Law 94-142, which becomes effective in 1977-78 and deals with educational opportunities for those deemed handicapped, will be made by Gloria Jones, director of pupil personnel services.

The statements by representatives of classified employees and certificated personnel are expected to deal with the percentage of salary increases accorded administrative and supervisory personnel two weeks ago.

All about gifted children

Parents of bright children are invited to learn "Everything You've Always Wanted To Know About Parenting the Gifted But Were Afraid To Ask."

The subject will be taken up Saturday at a conference in Palo Alto sponsored by Northern California Council of Programs for the Gifted.

Questions to be answered at the conference: "What role do we have in the formal education of our gifted children?" "How do we live with our gifted children?" "What does the word of work offer the gifted student?" "How would I recognize a gifted program if I saw one?"

Registration at $1 per single parent, $1.50 per couple will be taken at the door. Reservations for lunch at $3 may be made Friday by calling Mary Doren of El Cerrito at 233-4725.

Scheduled for 8:30 a.m. - 2:30 p.m., the conference is at Lewis M. Terman Junior High School, 655 Arastradero Road, Palo Alto.

VA hospital volunteers honored

LIVERMORE — Veterans Administration Hospital volunteers Thelma Stump, Lenore Moyers and Charles Swift head a list of more than 150 VA volunteers who will be honored Sunday at the Holiday Inn.

The three workers have some 10,000 hours of volunteer work to their credit, Stump having piled up more then 5,000 hours, Moyers and Swift tallying more than 2,500 hours each.

The volunteer recognition ceremony culminates a week of observances for National Hospital Week. The theme this year is, "We Put the Care in Health Care."

James M. Fleenor, hospital director, and members of his staff will present the awards. William D. Troxell, chief of voluntary service, is in charge of the program.

Bicycle club up for honor

SAN RAMON — Practice made the Valley Spokesman Touring Club perfect enough to get a nomination for Best Club Award from the League of American Wheelmen.

"We were selected as one of four finalists in the nation," said Bonnie Powers, secretary of the local bicycle club.

The Valley Community Services District (VCSD) sponsors the group.

The other three finalists are from Ohio, Oregon and Indiana.

Powers said the nomination entitles her club to attend a convention over July 4th weekend in Denver, Colorado.

"We'll be putting on an exhibit of pictures, information about club events and community involvement plus present a 15 minute talk to 'sell' the club."

If they win first place, they will receive $100 plus the honor of winning.

Powers husband, Bob, is ride chairman for the club. Bonnie and Bob have been involved with the Valley bike club since 1971.

"We are charter members," Bonnie said.

There are 475 members enrolled in the Valley Spokesman Touring Club.

She made heritage statement

DUBLIN — It was Judy Earl, not Marie Cronin, who brought the news to Alameda County planners that the Valley Community Services District had voted to oppose a proposed mini - storage yard at the I - 580 off - ramp in Dublin.

Earl, president of the Dublin Historical Preservation Association, had attended a Thursday afternoon work session along with Cronin to discuss their objections to the storage yard plan since it would be adjacent to a restoration complex on Donlon Way. Cronin says she hadn't heard about the Tuesday night VCSD vote although a comment about it was erroneously attributed to her in a May 6 story appearing in The Times.

So, what's new?

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS. Both my husband and my 12 - year - old son hate leisure. My husband really starts getting depressed every Friday when he knows he's going to have a holiday and my son is much happier when he has a rigid schedule of events, the type he gets at school. I don't know how my husband was ever attracted to me because I enjoy moments of quiet where I can just sit in a field or in our back yard and enjoy nature. Both my husband and our son say this bores them. Unless every moment is planned, they're bored. — R.R.

DEAR R.R.: You're wise to try to analyze and solve this problem now while your son is still young and before your husband retires. Your ability to enjoy leisure is a great gift and you can share it with both of them.

Sometimes the person who is afraid of unplanned time is really in flight from himself. He doesn't like to sit and contemplate because he's afraid of what he might see. He doesn't want to get close to himself or his inner feelings. Often, this kind of person becomes addicted to work, but if this is taken away from him, as it may be, he can then become addicted to something else, including alcohol. Individuals with this problem may often claim to be bored if there isn't constant action.

Boredom is really a state of dissatisfaction, a sense of emptiness within one's self. Boredom can do a great deal of harm, for when people feel frustrated and bored, they may do foolish, destructive things in an attempt to relieve this feeling.

Try to encourage your son and husband to do more reading. Try to stimulate their interest in books that might help them to be less afraid of reflection. Almost any kind of meditation might open them to new types of experience. Try to get them to express their feelings and share your feelings with them.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm a 75 - year - old grandmother who lives alone and likes it. Now, all of a sudden, I'm being pressured by everybody to move to the home of one of my sons because it's warmer. I'd rather stay where I am even if it does get cold in the winter. I don't want to appear ungrateful, but I just know I'd be miserable if I have to pull up roots and move. Do you think I should make up some excuses? How should I handle this? — D.E.

DEAR D.E.: I suggest you be just as direct as possible. Let them know you appreciate their interest and kindness but that you wish to keep your independence as long as you can. You should be able to be very honest with them. There are so many misunderstandings about aging, it's no wonder that there is often a communications gap between the elderly and their middle-aged children.

We sometimes forget that people don't stop being themselves just because they're old, so there is no "typical" middle - aged person. Unfortunately, many old people believe the stereotypes about themselves and this limits them.

It's important to remember that old age is a self - image. Some people are old at 40 and some are young at 90. I know it's a struggle sometimes, but the more you can express your opinions, even when they may be at odds with the views of your children, the easier it will be for you to keep your self - respect. This doesn't mean one must be rude, aggressive or unkind. It means that an older person should be able to have an open, honest relationship with his or her adult offspring and this should increase, not diminish, love and respect.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have high blood pressure and have been on medication and a diet. I have lost weight so I am off medications. My diet calls for six ounces of meat daily. I don't like meat. Could I have cottage cheese or cheddar cheese in place of meat or are they much higher in cholesterol than meat?

DEAR READER — At least you have demonstrated one point: if a person is overweight and loses weight it will often lower high blood pressure. That is why I always advise people with high blood pressure to eliminate every pound of body fat they can.

To give you more information about blood pressure I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I would not advise substituting cheese for meat unless your dietitian looks at your entire diet. The cheddar cheese contains over twice as many calories per ounce as lean round steak so you may defeat your calorie control program if you use six ounces of it instead of meat. It is also very high in fat and about half of the fat is saturated fat. It contains a little more cholesterol than lean beef.

Cottage cheese is fine and creamed cottage cheese contains fewer calories per ounce than lean beef — uncreamed cottage cheese contains even fewer calories. Both are low in cholesterol. Uncreamed cottage cheese contains so little cholesterol that it can be considered cholesterol free for practical purposes. However, cottage cheese contains less protein per ounce than lean beef. Uncreamed cottage cheese contains more protein per ounce than the creamed variety. And you would need to eat about eight ounces of that a day to provide the same number of grams of protein as you get in six ounces of meat.

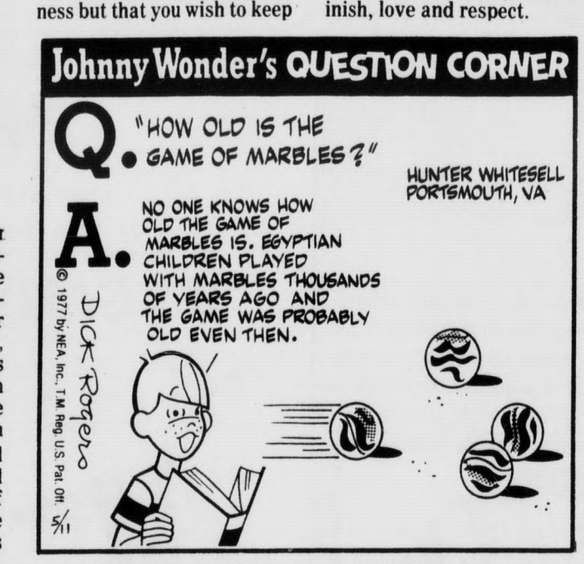
I think cottage cheese is a good item for weight control diets but it is probably best for most people to still have some meat in the diet.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am having an argument with a friend over which organ in the body causes emotions. He says the brain or heart and I read an article that says the liver. Which is correct?

DEAR READER — Do you love your friend with all your liver? The ancients thoughts the heart was the seat of human emotions but that was before we knew much about the human body. The heart was even thought to be the location of the human soul.

The truth is that the brain is the location of all emotions. Of course it must receive information before it can respond. The brain is much like a central computer — it receives all information and sends out signals for the proper responses to what it has received. So really if you love your friend you love him with all your brain.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER



Q. "HOW OLD IS THE GAME OF MARBLES?"

PORTSMOUTH, VA
A. NO ONE KNOWS HOW OLD THE GAME OF MARBLES IS. EGYPTIAN CHILDREN PLAYED WITH MARBLES THOUSANDS OF YEARS AGO AND THE GAME WAS PROBABLY OLD EVEN THEN.

A favorite pastime of children all over the world is the game of marbles. No one knows just when marbles began.

It was being played in America during colonial days. We also know that Egyptian and Roman children played with marbles several thousands years ago, and the game was probably old even then. It may even have been played in the days of cave men!

Scientists have discovered among Stone Age remains smooth, round stones which were too small to be used for anything but games.

Early marbles were made of stone and clay. Later, they were made from chips of true marble, and became known as "marbles."

Most marbles today are made of glass, but they can be made of clay, steel, stone or plastic. Glass marbles are usually made by melting glass and pressing it in a mold while it is still hot. A pigment is often inserted to color the marbles. Many people collect marbles as a hobby.

A perfect safety play is one that is going to work against any and all card combinations. Here is one that is not well known in spite of the fact that it has appeared in this column before.

A story goes with it. Some 40 plus years ago a young girl played for the first time at New York's Cavendish Club. She became declarer at three notrump and won the first trick.

Then she played her ace of diamonds. The king fell from the West hand and it was a simple matter for the girl to score two diamond tricks and make her contract. That girl later became known as Helen Sobel Smith, the greatest woman player of all time.

A male chauvinist player said, "You were lucky. The correct play would have been to lead a diamond from dummy and put in your ten."

Of course, he was wrong. Her play was sure to produce two diamond tricks for her against any and all diamond combinations.

A couple of months went by. Helen was faced with the same card combination. Again she played her ace. Again she made the two tricks she was sure to make and the male chauvinist said, "You'll never learn."

Glorious days for the Irish?

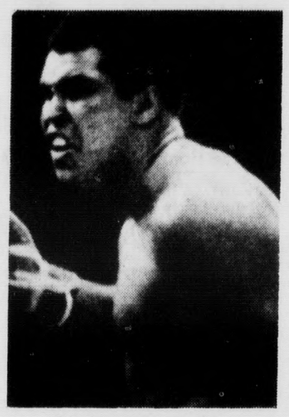
Just Ask

The tipoff:

With spring practice going on, a football note can be permitted — the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame are loaded for an assault on the national title. Twenty of last year's 22 starters are returning, and even two of those may not hang on to their jobs. Only chink in the armor is at quarterback, where they've got to find a leader.

Q. I am very interested in becoming a major league umpire. Could you give me the address of any or all umpiring schools, or where I might get such information. Also, what is your opinion of baseball clubs splitting into geographical divisions, such as San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, California, San Diego and Seattle? — Eddie Fracisco, San Pablo, Calif.

Re: umpires, you can write to two men: Fred Fleig, National League, One Rockefeller Plaza, New York 10020; Dick Butler, American League, 280 Park Avenue, New York 10017. They're in charge of umpires and umpire training for their respective leagues. As for realignment of baseball geographically, that makes too much sense. People who run sports have never been known for their logic.



Muhammad Ali

Q. What did you think of that exhibition of futility by Muhammad Ali against those three young heavyweights in April? I understand Joe Louis was there. Don't you think old Joe probably either went to sleep or lost his dinner watching that farce? — Bob Bridgman, Norwalk, Calif.

Ali is such a cult hero that to some people he can do no wrong. Myself, I think he's been ripping off the public for at least half a dozen years. I also think he's a hypocrite. But like P.T. Barnum said, there's one born every minute. And people buy what Ali does. As for Joe Louis, he once indulged in a bum - of - the - month campaign that was a yawner.

Q. I would like to have your opinion about whether or not Johnny Rogers will be able to make a successful switch from Canadian football to American football?

A lot depends on whether his head is on right, if you know what I mean. For ability, Rogers can't be faulted. He'll undoubtedly be a wide receiver because of his lack of size (5-9, 175). But he'll also return kicks, like Billy (White Shoes) Johnson does for Houston. And the San Diego Chargers' brain trust has been mulling his use as a part-time runner, like St. Louis does with Terry Metcalf. I think his success will depend less on himself than on how the Charges shape up as a team.

Parting Shot:

There's a possible movie in the works based on the heroic story of Don Klosterman, the general manager of the Los Angeles Rams — a former pro quarterback whose spine was injured in a skiing accident, who taught himself to walk, became a football executive and most recently came back strong from coronary by-pass surgery.

Got a tough question about sports and the people who play them? All you have to do is ask Murray Olderman. Write him in care of the Times, P.O. Box 607, Pleasanton, California, 94566. The most interesting questions will be answered in this column. Olderman regrets he cannot write personal responses to all the questions.

Wujek picked for All-Star tryout

OAKLAND — Three former East Bay Athletic League players are among the 40 chosen to try-out for the Alameda and Contra Costa all-star basketball teams that will meet in the two-game United Cerebral Palsy Classic next month.

Granada's Joe Wujek will report to the Skyline High School camp of the Alameda All-stars, coached by EBAL rival Skip Mohatt of Amador Valley, on June 18. Two players from the northern tip of the league, Ken Krey of Monte Vista and Phil Wiltz of San Ramon will report to Campolindo on the same date for Contra Costa's try-outs.

Wujek, who was played all over the court by Matador coach Pat Fracisco, will try his luck at forward for the all-star game. He'll have his hands full trying to earn a front court spot with players like Phil Barner, Kevin Flaig, James Foster, Doug Murrey, Tom O'Guinn and Donald Seals vying.

Barner will show up at try-outs only as a formality. A high school All-American, Barner is Fremont's second all-time scoring leader with a 15.1 average and is the Tigers fifth best rebounder ever with 435.

He also led Fremont in steals last season with 57 and found time to earn a 3.4 grade point average.

Times SPORTS
Dave Weber, Editor

Flaig, named to nine different all-something teams last season, is the only non-urban player — other than Wujek — to seriously contend for a forward spot.

At guard, the most likely choices for Alameda County are David Cornelious of McClymonds, Darrell Mellion of St. Mary's, Berkeley's Michael Mendez, Washington's Dave Nahirny and Byron Williams of Albany.

Krey, an all-EBAL choice with good hands and an 80 per cent free throw percentage, and Wiltz, a good, quick, leaper will have trouble making the Contra Costa team.

While Contra Costa is nowhere near as cluttered with talent as the Alameda roster, one would guess that about four of the eleven jerseys will be seriously contested for.

Kennedy's Bart Bowers, Salesian's Joe Doherty, Northgate's Jim Swan, Ken Carter of Richmond — the smallest nominee at 5-6, 150 — Jim Murphy of Campolindo, Pete Richardson of Northgate and Alhambra's Stan Van Gundy all should make it to the Richmond Auditorium June 28.

But with Gary Cook of Contra Costa and Mohatt in charge of the teams, hustle will be at a premium and some surprising faces may be on the floor come late June.

Deleray's 4 goals gives BU crown

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Four goals by Mike Deleray led to a pair of 3-0 victories and the under-12 championship of the United States Youth Soccer Association Western Regional tournament for Ballistic United here over the weekend.

Sunday, Ballistic, which will try for its third major championship of the year over the Memorial Day weekend in the Pacific Coast International at Los Altos Hills, won the crown with a three - zipper over the Diamond Bar Strikers, Southern California champions.

Deleray took a pass from Jimmy Kruger, who also played well on defense, and dribbled past a trio of defenders to score the opening goal with 14 minutes gone.

In the second half, Deleray connected after a pass from Mark Andrews before slaloming through a bundle of Striker defenders to hit Mel Grisel with a pass for the final goal.

Saturday it had been a victory over the Totem Titans.

Seven minutes into the game, Deleray cashed a Karl Kesterke rebound and three minutes later, Mike tallied off a pass from Grisel. Five minutes into the second half, Kesterke rippled the nets after a crossing pass from Scott Mandle.

'Quakes rally tops Whitecaps

SAN JOSE — Two goals in the final three minutes and 10 seconds gave the San Jose Earthquakes a dramatic 2-1 victory over the visiting Vancouver Whitcaps before a crowd of 15,555 at Spartan Stadium last night.

The Earhtquakes had Vancouver in their pocket for the first eighty-one minutes, but it was the Whitecaps who scored first.

Bob Bolidho jabbed the ball away from falling 'Quake goalkeeper Mike Hewitt and drove past Rory Laurie Calloway and Miro Pavlovic and punched the ball into the corner of the net.

But four minutes later, Vancouver again put the ball in the net net, this time the wrong one. Defender Garry Ayre knocked the ball past goalie Arnold Mausser to tie the score for the 'Quakes.

With a minute to play, San Jose won it. Tibor Molnar fed Paul Child and the popular striker took over the team scoring lead with his second goal of the year.

The Earthquakes' next game is Saturday evening at Spartan against the Portland Timbers. at 8 p.m. The game will be televised on KBHK (44) and broadcast over KXRX (1500 a.m.).

Vikings in playoffs

HAYWARD — Diablo Valley baserunners have literally been stealing the show all season, and the excessive thievery may gain the Vikings entrance into the Northern California Baseball Tournament.

Saturday, the Vikes completed their regular season with a 10-6 win over Chabot, in a game which included DVC's 71st stolen base of the season, a new school record. The win was the 21st overall for DVC overall, also a record.

The victory left Diablo with a 17-7 Golden Gate Conference record, which gives it a bye in the upcoming league playoffs. GGC winner San Mateo already has won a spot in the NorCal playoffs May 20-21 at the Bulldog field.

IT'S GOING TO BE A LONG, DRY, EXPENSIVE SUMMER.

WHAT HAS THE DROUGHT DONE TO POWER SUPPLIES?

The drought is already having its effect on PG&E's ability to generate electric power this year. Here are the facts:

In a normal year, much of PG&E's electricity is generated by water power. The drought has reduced our hydroelectric generating capacity to less than half of normal. By summer, we expect our reservoirs to be at all-time lows. Any chance of getting enough rain or snow to solve the problem just about disappeared by mid-March.

Last year was also a drought year. But we were able to buy large amounts of hydroelectric power from the Pacific Northwest. This year we can't. Water conditions there are so far below normal that a 10% cutback in power usage has been ordered. So no power at all is available to us from that source this year.

Our Diablo Canyon Nuclear Plant has the capacity to fill the gap. But it is not in operation because it is still in the process of being licensed.

To make up for the missing hydro power this year, we are working our steam-electric generating plants (fueled mostly by oil) overtime. We are also buying power from Southern California and Nevada utilities. The amounts available may or may not be enough to meet all our customers' demands during peak periods in coming months. If there is not enough power to go around, our customers will be asked to cut back their use even more than now. Power shortages that require actual power cutoffs to groups of customers will occur only if voluntary cutbacks fail to work. Or if there is a breakdown of major steam-electric generating equipment. (Such breakdowns, unfortunately, are more apt to happen when generating equipment works overtime, as now.)

WHAT ABOUT THE COSTS TO YOU?

With hydroelectric capacity sharply reduced, it takes more oil to run our steam-electric generating plants. This oil, mostly imported, costs almost $15 a barrel. We will need to burn at least 50 million barrels of it this year—compared to less than 27 million last year. And the more oil we burn, the more electricity will cost.

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

If ever the need to conserve energy were clear, it is now. Saving kilowatt hours not only helps relieve the energy shortage, it also saves you real money. Just call or visit your nearest PG&E office. We will provide you with information on how you can cut down on your use of electricity without disrupting your home or business.

Save energy. You'll save money, too.

Film Views Aged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An Oscar has brought Lynne Littman and Barbara Myeroff no fame and fortune, but the elderly subjects of their film "gave us a touch of tangible magic."

"Number Our Days," which won the Academy Award for the Best Achievement in Documentary Shorts, will air on Channel 9 Tuesday night at 11 p.m. and again Wednesday afternoon at 12:30 p.m. as part of the Americana series.

The documentary, by filmmaker Littman and anthropolgist Myeroff, portrays a community of aged Jews, who immigrated early in the century from Eastern Europe and who live their lives now centered around the Israel Levin Senior Adult Center on the Venice beach here.

The film began with the field work of Ms. Myeroff, 42, for the University of Southern California Social Contexts of Aging Project.

In the film, she describes how she wanted to study Chicanos or some exotic culture that is the usual subject of anthropologists, but was asked why she didn't study her own kind.

Most anthropologists, no matter how hard they try, will never become that other culture they study, she said, "but I will be a little old Jewish lady."

After her visits to the center, she shared the magic she was feeling with Ms. Littman, a 35-year-old staff producer at KCET, the Los Angeles PBS station.

Nick Nolte, Susan Blakely and Peter Strauss will return as the stars of "Rich Man, Poor Man – Book I" which will be rerun beginning with a special two-hour presentation Tuesday night at 9 p.m. on Channels 7, 11 and 13.

Wicks grabs EBAL lead

It may be a pitcher's league this year, But Amador Valley's Rob Wicks has personally reversed the trend.

Wicks, who used to be known solely as an untouchable pitcher, has been touched slightly this season, but has more than made up for it at the bat with an impressive .457 average to lead all East Bay Athletic League batters in latest unofficial statistics.

Vance Rushing slipped to .417, down form last week's league - leading .429 clip.

Pitching is the rule this season. Five teams boast ERA's of less than 2.00, while ten pitchers can claim that same distinction.

Local swimmers star

SARATOGA — A trio of local performers led the way as Chabot College took sixth place at the California Community College Swimming Championships in the West Valley College pool here over the weekend.

Former Amador Valley High School swimmer Jeff Gaeckle broke his own school record to finish sixth in the 200-meter butterfly in a time of 1:53.84 and led off the 800-meter free relay with a 200-meter split of 1:44.4 to better the old mark.

Gaeckle also turned in the best 100-meter split, 47.47, for the Glad 400-meter freestyle relay team that wound up 11th. Gaeckle's old Don team mate, Don Lanini was 11th in the 200-meter breast stroke at 2:13.359.

IT TOOK TEN YEARS TO DEVELOP A "TOTAL SYSTEM" THAT DELIVERS REAL TASTE IN A LOW 'TAR' CIGARETTE.

Decade is the first low 'tar' in which all the parts have been arranged in perfect balance with each other. This is the Decade "Total System." And this is why Decade is the first low 'tar' with a taste worth smoking.

We've developed a system called "Flavor Packing" that allows us to concentrate a special patented tobacco flavorant in each Decade cigarette.

This is in addition to our special taste blend of fifteen fine tobaccos, including exotic Turkish, full bodied Burley, and Bright, a tobacco known for its smoothness.

The Filter. Unique "Taste Channel" gives first puff impact.

The Decade filter is a combination of modern laser technology, plus our own exclusive research design. Simply, we've created a channel within the filter to give you that first puff impact you've come to expect from only the higher 'tar' cigarettes. Which means you get taste from first puff to last.

The Paper. High porosity paper controls burn rate.

For Decade we use only high porosity cigarette paper. Ordinary paper inhibits the burn rate, which can diminish the taste and create the need to pull harder when you drag.

With Decade's high porosity paper however, you get an efficient burn rate that delivers optimum taste with a minimum of 'tar.'

The result. A completely new kind of low 'tar' cigarette.

So try a pack of Decade for yourself. Regular or Menthol. And after one taste we think you'll agree that our last 10 years were well worth the effort.

Only 5 mg. 'tar.'

Regular and Menthol.
